Safety requirements on waste baling presses – new CEN project committee

The European standards committee adopted a new standardisation project: CEN/TC 397 "Project Committee - Baling presses - Safety requirements". The committee will define safety requirements on waste baling presses. The secretariat of the newly established project committee is held by NAM (Normenausschuss Maschinenbau – Mechanical Engineering Standards Committee) within DIN (Deutsches Institut für Normung – German Institute for Standardisation). Contact person is Mrs. Naemi Denz (naemi.denz@vdma.org).

In the context of CEN resolution 2009/C022, no European member state objected against the standardisation project. Presumably Denmark, France and Great Britain will participate in the committee together with Germany.

The next step will be a CEN meeting, arranged in Mannheim/Germany on 16th and 17th of September, where the attendees will discuss the work programme and will start working on contents.
